Supporting Grassroots Advocacy

Speaking Out

Speaking Out: Honduras / Central America

As part of the ongoing TA with Asociacion Kukulcan, the MSMGF supported Kukulcan to implement a regional Speaking Out training of trainers (TOT) from May 26 - May 31st in La Ceiba, Honduras. A total of 12 participants attended the training: 2 from El Salvador, 3 from Guatemala, 3 from Nicaragua, and 4 from Honduras. During the 5-day training, participants identified issues salient to the lives of gay men, other MSM, and transgender people in Central America. They also identified advocacy campaigns to address the issues of stigma and discrimination, human rights violations, lack of access to HIV services for MSM and transgender people, and lack of funding for these services. Participants also participated in a one-day training on group facilitation and did "teach back" on different sections and activities. This allowed facilitators to critique group facilitation skills and content knowledge, providing constructive feedback for participants to improve their skills and knowledge.

The training also included a new section on documentation of human rights violations, implemented for the first time at the training in La Ceiba. Participants requested that Kukulcan and the MSMGF have a three day training dedicated to this subject in order to: 1) properly train LGBT staff on how to document human rights violations; 2) draft regional tools and forms that all LGBT organizations should use in order to unify and systematize information; 3) create a regional database that can house all human rights violations documented by the participating organizations; and 4) draft a document that compiles these cases and can be presented to the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights.

At the end of the five days, participants had a work plan to replicate a two-day training with their peers in their countries. These trainings will take place between June and August, 2013. They also drafted a unified working agenda and tailored guide for the two-day training. Advocates also started conversations about forming a regional network of MSM and transgender activists and organizations in Central America. Working groups were created and timeline was developed.

As a follow up to the previous training in February 2013, participants also drafted two specific advocacy campaigns to be supported by Kukulcan. Both proposals are under development with technical assistance from Kukulcan and the MSMGF. One proposal has a regional focus to create a regional assessment of hate crimes based on sexual orientation and gender identity for use in lobbying policy makers and politicians at the regional level. The second proposal focuses on engaging Honduran politicians and political parties in a dialogue on inclusion of LGBT rights in political party platforms. Presidential elections will be held this year in Honduras, and participants from Honduras believe 2013 is a good time to engage politicians before the elections which will be held in November.

New Speaking Out Webpage

The MSMGF launched the Speaking Out webpage on May 17th, the International Day Against Homophobia and Transphobia. The Policy Team worked with a graphic designer to develop the website for Speaking Out, as well as a new logo as part of the communication strategy to promote the program and disseminate information about it. The website offers an overview of the Speaking Out program and regional information, photos, and video testimonials from participating advocates. Visitors can also use the new site to download adapted versions of the Speaking Out toolkit in English, Spanish, French, and Vietnamese.

Speaking Out Interviews

MSMGF Executive Director George Ayala and Director of Policy Noah Metheny were interviewed by Viiv Positive Action about the development of the Speaking Out Initiative, discussing the program's overarching goals, the needs addressed, and the impact and lessons learned from the Initiative after two years. The interview, along with photos from Speaking Out trainings and video testimonials from participants, can be accessed online.

Support for Advocates to Attend Transgender Health Summit

The MSMGF Policy team supported Laurel Sprague, a regional coordinator for GNP+, to attend and present at the Transgender Health Summit held in Oakland, California, in mid-April. Laurel presented on new data she has collected on the impact of HIV criminalization on people living with HIV (PLHIV), particularly key affected populations living with HIV.

The consultation took place in Accra, Ghana and brought together over 50 stakeholders from sex worker-led organizations and networks, as well as other key population groups, government health ministries, large international NGOs, and key global AIDS donors. COMMUNITY SYSTEMS STRENGTHENING

Bridging the Gaps

Strategy Assessment Conducted for Ecuador, Costa Rica, Zimbabwe, Kenya, and Brazil

MSMGF Programs staff traveled to Ecuador, Costa Rica, Zimbabwe, Kenya, and Brazil to meet with local partners and conduct strategy assessments for the Bridging the Gaps (BtG) program. The meeting objectives included orienting local partners to the MSMGF's role in the BtG project, taking stock of progress made in the BtG project till date, discussing work plans for 2013, identifying opportunities for collaboration and provision of technical assistance, and developing strategies for collaboration beyond 2013.

Capacity Assessment Tools in Development

MSMGF consultant Supriya Pillai presented initial capacity assessment tools to support capacity assessment for BtG partner organizations. The tools focus on a wide range of topics, including organizational development, financial management, technical improvement, human resource management, and board development. These tools will be translated into Spanish and Portuguese, and the MSMGF is actively seeking resources to add Chinese, French, Arabic and Russian. Once the tools are complete and capacity in target areas has been assessed, specific capacity building activities will be determined on a case by case basis with each in-country partner.

Technical Assistance

Initial Review Completed for the Healthcare Provider Curriculum

MSMGF Programs staff continues to work toward the completion of a new curriculum for healthcare provision targeting gay men and other MSM, passing significant milestones this quarter. In June, Professor Stefan Baral and researcher Krystal Mason met with Programs staff to finalize the research component of the 10-module curriculum. Next steps include content finalization and review by the curriculum's global Technical Advisory Body.

Support for the Eurasian Coalition on Male Health

The Eurasian Coalition on Male Health (ECOM) is receives support from the Robert Carr Civil Society Networks Fund (RC-NF) as a sub-recipient of the MSMGF. ECOM has undergone several significant changes this quarter, including resignation of the Executive Director and the addition of new members from Eastern Europe. The MSMGF held multiple exploratory discussions with newly engaged activists, as well as UNDP, amfAR, and the US State Department to ensure a smooth transition of ECOM leadership and completion of ECOM's legal registration.

RESEARCH

Original Research

Coverage of Key Populations at the 2012 International AIDS Conference

The MSMGF worked with a coalition of global advocacy organizations to conduct a systematic quantitative audit and qualitative analysis of abstracts on key populations at the 2012 International AIDS Conference, also known as AIDS 2012. The audit revealed that only 17% of all abstracts at AIDS 2012 were exclusively focused on MSM, transgender people, people who inject drugs (PWID), or sex workers. The analysis also indicated that more abstracts on key populations focused on individual risk factors than any other topic, and that nearly two-thirds of all abstracts on key populations were focused on 10 countries alone. The report was released with a global sign-on letter calling on the organizers of the conference to take several concrete steps to increase meaningful coverage of key populations at future International AIDS Conferences.

Young MSM: Health, Access, & HIV

The MSMGF conducted a secondary analysis of 2012 Global Men's Health and Rights survey (GMHR) data to examine levels of access to HIV services and factors that impact access to services for young MSM (YMSM). The analysis revealed that YMSM around the world experience higher levels of homophobia, unstable housing, violence, and other factors that hinder access to HIV services, compared to older MSM. The analysis also indicated that YMSM fare worse than older MSM in their attempts to access numerous HIV services, including HIV treatment. The results of the analysis were published in a policy brief entitled, "Young Men Who Have Sex with Men: Health, Access, & HIV."

Peer-Reviewed Publications

Two manuscripts prepared by the MSMGF Research Group (MRG) were accepted for publication in major peer-reviewed journals this quarter. The published versions will appear in forthcoming issues of each journal respectively.

Homophobia as a Barrier to HIV Prevention Service Access for Young Men Who Have Sex with Men (YMSM)

Journal of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome

This Letter to the Editor uses data from the 2010 GMHR to examine the impact of homophobia on access to HIV prevention services for YMSM. The data revealed that significantly fewer YMSM reported easy access to 17 out of 18 HIV prevention services measured when compared to older MSM. The data also showed that a greater percentage of YMSM perceived a high degree of social discrimination based on sexual orientation and that both homophobia and internalized homophobia were independently and negatively associated with access to HIV prevention services.

Access to basic HIV-related services and PrEP acceptability among men who have sex with men worldwide: Barriers, facilitators and implications for combination prevention

Journal of Sexually Transmitted Diseases

This paper uses data from the 2012 GMHR to examine access to basic HIV-related services and the acceptability of pre-exposure prophylaxis (PrEP) among MSM worldwide. The data revealed low levels of access to condoms, lubricants, HIV testing, and HIV treatment among MSM globally and indicated several factors that act as barriers and facilitators to HIV service access. The data also indicated a number of barriers and facilitators affecting PrEP acceptability among MSM.

Posters and Presentations

Members of the MRG gave several presentations at high-visibility meetings and conferences this quarter using original data and analysis generated by the MSMGF.

Society for Prevention Research

MSMGF research was featured as the centerpiece of a symposium session at the 21st Annual Meeting of the Society for Prevention Research (SPR). MRG members gave four presentations based on data from the 2012 GMHR during the symposium. A description of the symposium section is available online.

AIDSTAR-One Technical Consultation on Innovative Uses of Communication Technology for HIV Programming for MSM and TG Populations

Co-sponsored by U.S. President's Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief, the National Institute of Mental Health, and the American Foundation for AIDS Research, this two-day technical consultation provided a forum for key stakeholders in HIV research, programming, implementation, and evaluation to take stock of important developments in the field and develop strategies to improve communication technology for enhanced HIV services. The MSMGF presented survey methods from the 2012 GMHR, highlighting innovative uses of communication technology for community-based research.

SAHARA: An African Conference for African Solutions in HIV/AIDS

The MSMGF's abstract, entitled "Social/Structural Predictors of Access to HIV Services among African MSM: Implications for Program Design and Delivery," was accepted for presentation at the 7th SAHARA conference to take place in October, 2013 in Dakar, Senegal. The abstract presents data from the 2012 GMHR focused on access to HIV services among MSM in Africa. Nearly 400 African MSM across 34 countries participated in the 2012 GMHR, reporting low levels of access to HIV prevention services. Among African MSM, access to HIV prevention and care services was predicted by lower homophobic violence, lower stigma from providers, and higher engagement and connection with the gay community.

PUBLICATIONS

The MSMGF produced two publications over the past quarter, both based on original research described in the Research section of this report. The publications can be found at the following links:
